Summary:

Workforce age gives a picture of the current spread of ages in the working population, and can help plan for future changes. For example, the Upper Valley Lake Sunapee region statistics shown at the left show a large percentage of workers in the 45-54 age bracket and a smaller group of younger workers. In ten years, when this age bracket begins to retire, the smaller groups which are still working will shoulder the tax load to support social services.
